

KEY PROJECT

The Key Project is a housing support service for tenants offering extra help to people living in Castlehill properties. The main aim is to help tenants to sustain their tenancy, in other words, to 'keep the key' and to help tackle any risk which may threaten the tenancy.

Sometimes housing support is offered right at the beginning of a tenancy. For example, this might be because it is the first time a person has taken on a tenancy or if someone has no furniture to move into a property.

However, it may be that things become difficult during a tenancy and again the Key Project can offer housing support. This can mean a variety of things, but usually it involves some sort of housing difficulty, for example, problems with housing benefit, money worries, health concerns, etc.

The Key Project is funded by the local authority and is registered with Social Care and Social Work Improvement Scotland (SCSWIS), formally the Care Commission.

If you would like to find out whether the Key Project would be helpful to you, please contact the Key Project directly or ask your Housing Officer for more information.

The Key Project offers a confidential service. Appointments can be arranged either in your home or in the office.
